

TRYING TO FIND AUTHORITY FOR TOLL CHARGE

The board of supervisors today instructed District Attorney A. P. Nelson to write Jerome O'Neill, of Oceanside and learn whether or not Dr. Murietta Morris, who conducts a resort in San Juan Canyon, has any authority to collect a toll of $1.50 from every motorist who passes through the O'Neill line gate.

Milton McLees, Hollywood real estate operator, brought the matter to the attention of the board. He reported to the sheriff yesterday that when he attempted to leave the forest reserve Sunday afternoon he was held up by G. W. Westfall, who claimed to be foreman for Mrs. Morris. McLees stated that he took a gun away from Westfall and then submitted to arrest on a charge of trespassing. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Damer at Capistrano.

A letter which McLees addressed to the board of supervisors was read to that body this morning by J. M. Backs, clerk of the board.

"Westfall," says the letter, "threatened to kill anyone who passed from the car of my father-in-law, Frank Marcher, from Los Angeles, and three stores at Mr. Marcher, and made various threats."

"I would like to have the supervisors investigate the rights we have to travel this road, or if it is a toll road we would like to know just the circumstances. Even the rangers are being held up at this road. Also families who camp on the forest rangers' land are being held up and refused right to pass on this road."

Constable George A. Clark of San Juan Capistrano appeared before the board this morning and stated that he would like to see the matter settled. The dispute arises about this time every year, he said.

"Doctor Morris wants to exact a toll of $1.50 from every motorist who goes onto the forest reserve," said Constable Clark. "I hear complaints about the matter every week end. It seems to me that the Morris people are trying to make a meal ticket of the toll gate. Why, she is even trying to make the fire warden pay toll."

Constable Clark stated that the county road extends only to San Juan Capistrano. Above the Springs about half a mile, the O'Neill ranch ends. Then comes half a mile or so of federal forest.

District Attorney Nelson held that the supervisors have no jurisdiction whatever beyond the county road. The ground on which dispute arises is on O'Neill property at the edge of government property.

Nelson was told by Forest Ranger Seary that the tolls are charged without consent of the forest service.

McLees, the Hollywood realty dealer, who made the first written complaint, says he has an old claim on the forest reserve.

This afternoon it was learned that Mrs. Morris had had an arrest made on a battery charge. She tried to hold the gate against someone who refused to be stopped, and the gate struck her. This, she alleges constituted battery upon her.

"Forest Ranger Seary told me today," said Nelson, "that O'Neill's foreman said that Mrs. Morris is charging toll without any authority from O'Neill."

HINT PLOT AS GUNS FOUND IN SLAYING

Burch bought the gun, shot Kennedy and then threw the weapon in the ocean.

OBENCHAIN LOSES JOB BY HELPING EX-WIFE

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—It cost Ralph Obenchain his position with the Aetna Life Insurance company to go to the aid of his former wife, Madalynne, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy in Los Angeles. The company terminated the services of Obenchain, its attorney, when he left for Los Angeles to take charge of Madalynne's defense.

Obenchain requested a vacation, but this was refused, it is understood, and when he insisted the company pointed out he had caused much notoriety and discontinued his services.

STATE LOCATES MYSTERY WITNESS IN EAST

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—Deputy Sheriff Bright will leave today for Evanston, Ill., to bring back with him a mystery witness who will testify in the Kennedy case against Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch, according to Under-Sheriff Biscailuz.

Biscailuz refused to reveal the identity of the witness, or the nature of the testimony which will be given.

Bright will also spend some time co-operating with the Chicago and Evanston authorities in investigating the past lives of Madalynne and Burch with a view to gathering data concerning the possible motive for the killing of Kennedy, to be used in the trial.

He also plans to interview H. M. Bartlett, former justice of the peace at Evanston, who was quoted to the effect that he had seen Burch, at the time he was leaving Evanston, for Los Angeles, carrying a shotgun case among his baggage.

OUTLINES SALIENT POINTS IN SLAYING CASE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—The chain of circumstantial evidence by which the state hopes to convict Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch of the murder of John Belton Kennedy, will consist of the following contentions, it was learned today:

1.—That Kennedy's ardent affections were waning. This is shown by his letters. It is also shown by the fact that he was ailing, and Burch asking him to come to her aid, and telling him that "things were looking bad."

2.—That Burch rented a room overlooking Kennedy's offices in order to ascertain his movements, and paid a bonus of $1 a day additional for the room.

3.—That Burch had an automobile, left his hotel on the evening of the murder with a package wrapped in newspapers which looked like a shotgun, under his arm.

4.—That the tracks of the tires found at Beverly Glen correspond to those of the rented machine and that the mileage made by the car on the night of the murder, and in the corresponding hours, is equal to the distance from the garage to the Glen, thence to Long Wharf at Santa Monica, and back to Los Angeles.

5.—That Mrs. Obenchain stayed at the Glen, and told her story of the "lucky penny" and the two ragged men in order to protect Burch.

6.—That Burch, knowing Mrs. Obenchain was held in jail "in connection with" the murder, hurriedly left Los Angeles for the east.

7.—That Burch, admitted having seen Madalynne, and at first posed as "Madalynne's cousin."

8.—That Madalynne and Burch had, on the testimony of the hotel clerk, been in conference in Burch's room several times, and that Kennedy was probably called in and argued with both.

9.—That a thorn was extracted from Burch's knee after he was brought back to the county jail; That this thorn corresponds with those growing around Kennedy's cottage in Beverly Glen.

10.—That Mrs. Obenchain admitted that she was "shielding another person."

The clues regarding the shotgun used in the murder are in such a chaotic state at present, a shotgun butt having been found in the ocean near Santa Monica, the gun having been identified as one bought from a pawnbroker here, and a shotgun having been declared to have been in Burch's baggage when he left Evanston for Chicago, that the state is at present withholding the definite contention it will make on this subject.

ATTORNEYS DECIDE ON ONE TRIAL FOR SUSPECTS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16 — Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch will be tried together, and will be defended by one corps of attorneys, headed by Ralph Obenchain, LeCompte Davis, noted criminal attorney, and Warren Williams, who was originally retained as Mrs. Obenchain's counsel, it was revealed here today.

Davis, who was asked to defend Burch, originally stipulated that he would not take the case unless Madalynne and Burch were tried together.

Following a conference between attorneys for both sides today, including Attorney John Curran, who has been representing Burch, in the offices of Williams, it was decided to merge the trials.

Davis is known to have positively stated that Madalynne's innocence can be absolutely proved, and that in a combined trial, both she and Burch can be cleared of any complicity in bringing about Kennedy's death.

BEE'S ROUT CANDY VENDOR IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—A vender of chocolate, plying his trade on a crowded street here recently, was attacked by a swarm of bees seeking the sweets, and he and a number of passers-by were severely stung before the arrival of a detachment of fire-fighters, who turned a hose on the bees and dispersed them.

MINNESOTA FARMERS WHO PAID HIGH FOR LANDS ARE HARD HIT

That hundreds of Minnesota farmers who paid high prices for farm lands in the last two or three years are hard hit as the result of inactivities in Minnesota, is declared by W. S. Rose of 915 Lacey street.

Rose has just returned from a seven weeks trip that took him to Iowa and to his old home in Austin, Minn.

"Though it has been thirty-four years since I was in Austin," said Rose, "I found a good many men there who were there when I lived there. There are a good many farmers who have bought land on contract who can't pay their interest. Some of the land sold as high as $230 an acre. Well informed men tell me that excepting in very unusual years the farmers haven't been able to make grain growing go there when land has cost over $100."

Rose said that corn crops generally looked good, but rain was badly needed. He said that everywhere he went he found people talking about California.

FULLERTON MAN IS FINED, BOOZE CASE

B. Diaz, foreman of the Bastanchury ranch, was this morning haled before Judge French of Fullerton charged with bootlegging, following his arrest last night with four quarts of whiskey on his person. He was fined $300 and given a sentence of ninety days in jail, which sentence was suspended. Following the arrest last night his premises were searched and a barrel containing two gallons of whiskey were found.

TELEGRAM TELLS OF TRAGIC DROWNING

FULLERTON, Aug. 16.—F. C. Krause, president of the Fullerton First National bank, received a telegram this morning telling him of the tragic death by drowning of his brother-in-law, R. H. Creighton of Newport, Wash. No particulars were contained in the message save that the drowning took place in Diamond lake, near his home and that Mrs. Creighton and her daughter narrowly escaped the same fate. Mrs. Creighton and Mrs. Krause are sisters.

MAN DROPS DEAD TODAY

A report reached here today that a man believed to be William Monahan of Tacoma, Wash., had dropped dead from heart failure, in the rear of the S. Q. R. Store, at Anaheim, at 10:45 this morning. The deceased appeared to be a man of approximately 70 years of age and the body is being held at an undertaking establishment of that city awaiting identification by relatives in the north.

The local police received a telephone call from Mrs. Rider about 1 o'clock this morning. She requested that the couple be arrested and held if they applied for a marriage license.

County Clerk J. M. Backs was notified and when the couple showed up he called Constable Jesse Elliott. Mrs. Rider had not arrived at press time today.

According to information given the authorities by Mrs. Rider the girl is only 16. She gave her age as 18 in applying for the license and said she was born in May, 1902.

The girl declares that Mrs. Rider is not her aunt and that it is not her age but Mrs. Rider's objection to her suit that prevented the ceremony.

John McFadden company of this city was the successful bidder on the plumbing for the new school house to be erected at Yorba Linda in the near future.

ANOTHER EXPOSITION FOR GREATER SANTA ANA, NEXT OCTOBER

October 8 today was set as a tentative date for the holding another greater Santa Ana exposition, similar to that held here in April last.

H. Elmo Lebreque, who conducted the former exposition, was here today in consultation with directors of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association, the display and show committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and representatives of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion.

These three groups will meet tomorrow with the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, the session being called for 8:30 a. m., when plans will be further discussed.

Co-operation of the three organizations in a week of big displays is possible. Parades on certain days and other features that will make the event distinctive are being considered in the preliminary discussions.

Lebreque has secured a tent twice the size as that used here in April and it will be available for the exhibition here. It is now in San Francisco.

The exposition will open on Saturday and will continue all of the following week. It will not open on Sunday.

The success of the exposition of last April has convinced local business men of the value of such a display and with the plans operating on a large scale for the coming display it is expected that hundreds of people will be attracted to the city.

Bob Cavanaugh and Marvin Greathouse, both former Santa Anamen, are now with Lebreque managing two expositions that he is now operating in Southern California, one of them at Glendale.

YORBA SCHOOL BONDS SOLD ON BID TODAY

The Yorba school district bonds of $25,000 were sold by the board of supervisors today to William R. Staats company, of Los Angeles, whose bid was $38.50. The Citizens National bank of Los Angeles bid par and accrued interest and the First National bank of Santa Ana bid $12.

The Bay City school district bonds of $20,000 still are for sale, no bids being received today. The board will solicit bids again at its next regular meeting, August 30, at 11 a. m.

The board of supervisors today authorized County Purchasing Agent W. F. Slabaugh to sell the Talley Light plant at Orange county park for $50. Slabaugh informed the board that he had found a cash buyer for that price.

A week ago today the board attempted to dispose of the light plant at public auction. Chairman Talhori declared the plant sold to Dr. Slabaugh for $20. It was understood that this was done in order that Slabaugh might secure a private bidder.

MORE ATTENTION TO SPEAKING PREDICTED

The time is coming when more attention will be given in public schools to the cultivation of the art of public speaking, or rather oral instead of written expression, in the opinion of Prof. Leonard G. Nattkemper, instructor of public speaking and art and a member of the faculty of the Long Beach high school, as expressed today in a brief talk at the meeting of the Rotary club.

"Public Speaking for Business Men" was the subject of his discussion and he touched upon points that have their influence on the average man and woman when they attempt to speak in public.

Self consciousness, he declared, is one of the greatest factors in causing the average person to forget what he wants to say when he stands up before an audience. He declared that school training should be directed in the lines of teaching the pupil to "think on his feet."

Al E. Johnson was chairman of today's entertainment committee and it was through his influence that the Long Beach instructor appeared here.

Nattkemper entertained also by reading some humorous rhymes he has composed, the subjects being taken from every day life.

Announcement was made by Mac Robbins that Long Beach is coming 100 strong to the big Rotarian barbecue to be held at the Orange County park Thursday evening. Seventy-seven tickets already have been sold there, with assurance that 100 will be sold.

W. C. Jerome, county auditor, and D. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana high school, were obligated as members of the club, Joe Skidmore and E. E. Jahraus, both of Laguna Beach, were to have been obligated. Skidmore is sick and Jahraus was detained.

The committee on next week's program was announced by President W. H. Spurgeon as being composed of Herbert Rankin, Alex Brownridge, S. H. Finley and J. Simon Fluor. For the following week Mac Robbins, the Rev. J. A. Stevenson, J. C. Hayden, Charles D. Brown and A. V. Napier will be responsible for the program.

GIRL SEIZES HAWK WITH BARE HANDS

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 16.—Miss Iida Lucile Leasure, daughter of John Leasure Jr., residing on the Bedford Road, seven miles from Cumberland, captured a large chicken hawk with her bare hands.

It measured fifty-four inches from tip to tip of wings, and is being kept alive in a cage. The hawk darted down to seize a chicken and Miss Leasure made a dash for it and grasped it in such a manner as to prevent her from being lacerated by either beak or talons.

MOTOR TRANSIT AND STEPHENS ARE MOVED

Patrons of the Motor Transit company are today leaving the city from the new station just completed at Fifth and Bush street. The new and attractive quarters were opened for business this morning, and the waiting room's attractive appearance met with many expressions of approval.

The finish of the room is all in white and ivory, while from the large windows at the rear, the workings of the service garage in connection with the station are open to the view of the traveling public.
According to J. W. Tubbs, manager of the Stephens motor car agency, which is housed under the same roof, the efforts of those at the head of the company will all tend to keep up the same sanitary conditions that characterize the station at present.
"A woman may come into the waiting room in spotless white," stated Tubbs, "and be assured that when she leaves her garments will be as fresh and unsoiled as when she came in."

A woman's rest room is provided.

RECKLESS DRIVING BRINGS SENTENCE

William Jones, colored, of Anaheim, today is under a suspended sentence of 60 days in the county jail and minus $25 for driving his automobile in a reckless manner last Sunday afternoon. And if he drives his car on a public highway within the next six months he is liable to arrest and imprisonment. Judge Cox granted Jones permission to drive about the city of Anaheim on business, however.

Jones was brought into court yesterday afternoon on complaint of C.
W. Dorsey of Whittier. Dorsey testified that Jones attempted to drive between Dorsey's machine and another when these two were passing each other at a point on Newport boulevard about five miles this side of Newport.

According to Dorsey, Jones drove his car at an oblique angle across the highway and directly in the path of his machine which was going in the opposite direction. A collision resulted and both cars were damaged. Dorsey's little daughter was slightly hurt.

Other witnesses testified that Jones cut in ahead of them. Judge Cox told the defendant that he was a dangerous man to be on the highways and that he would keep him off for a period of six months.

Dorsey presented Jones with a bill for damages to his machine, which, it was stated, are approximately $100.

DIRECTIONS GIVEN CONCERNING ROUTES THAT ARE AVAILABLE

With Main street closed from the north city limits to Fourth street and First street closed from Main to the Santa Fe tracks the main travelled thoroughfare from the north and east in and out of the city is not available to traffic.

Diversion of the traffic to other streets has become necessary and to many the best avenues for getting into the city or from this city to Orange and the northeast are little known.

For traffic between this city and Los Angeles, a paved highway is available by way of Garden Grove to the continuation of West Center street, Anaheim. By way of Fullerton, the state highway is available to a point a short distance east of the bridge crossing the Santa Ana river on Chapman street, Orange, thence south over a fair dirt road to the north end of Broadway, Santa Ana. The dirt road detour is about two miles in length.

From this city Orange can be reached by paved highway by going out Fourth street to Grand avenue and taking that street north to Fairhaven avenue, thence west to Glassell street and north on Glas-sell into the city of Orange.

East Fourth street is the only paved street open to traffic to San Diego and the section to the east and southeast of the city.

The distance, to Los Angeles through Garden Grove is one mile further than by of the detour, according to measurements made yesterday.

SPANIARD INVENTS AUTOMATIC BRAKE

MADRID, Aug. 16.—An automatic safeguard against collisions and other railway and motor accidents has been invented by the Spanish engineer, Alao Soto, says El Libertad.

The apparatus works through the sounding of an electric bell to give warning. When the bell rings, brakes are automatically applied and speed reduced.

PRaises SOviet WHILE FAMINE TAKES TOLL

By CARL D. GROAT, United Press Staff Correspondent. (Copyright 1921, by the United Press.)

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—"The Russian government remains the same toilers as before; our new economic policy is the result of the general situation."

That was the statement of Foreign Minister Tchitcherine of Russia, wireless to the United Press today.

"The famine makes much change in the internal situation," Tchitcherine said.

(The change mentioned by Tchitcherine was the decision announced last week to relinquish the government operation of industry. It was announced that industries will be leased to co-operative concerns and individuals, the government retaining full control only of vital public utilities.)

Tchitcherine's message in full said: "The famine makes much change in the internal situation of the workers and peasants' government, which adequately represents the will of the toiling masses."

"It does its duty struggling against calamity. It remains the same toilers government as before."

"Our new economic policy is the result of the general situation."

"Communists always consider environment and emergency. Their program remains but their tactics change according to the situation."

SOLONS FACE HUGE TASK BEFORE THEY CAN TAKE RECESS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Legislative tasks set for congress by President Harding before it can take a rest today appear impossible of completion before the middle of next week.

Unfinished measures which must go to the president before congress gets away are:

The Capper-Tincher anti-grain gambling bill, the anti-medical beer bill, the $1,000,000 farm credits bill, the resolution extending the emergency tariff and the deficiency bill carrying $48,500,000 for the shipbuilding and $200,000 for the department conference expenses.

The tax revision bill must pass the house and go over to the senate.

TROOPS JOIN HUNT FOR AGED MAN LOST IN CATALINA HILLS

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 16.—While searching parties today were still combing the hills of Catalina Island searching for William McNaughton, 74, of La Verne, who disappeared a week ago, while on a hiking trip in the mountains, hope of finding his father alive had been abandoned by Arthur McNaughton, a son residing here.

The elder McNaughton, fond of tramping, was last seen when he left his cottage at Avalon for a trip into the Catalina hills. When he failed to return in the evening, searching parties were organized. The following day airplanes circled over the mountains and details of troops led by Major Grubb, U. S. A., assisted in the search. Hope is still entertained by the son that the body may be found.

ARMY, NAVY MAY RAID

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Whiskey smugglers, attempting to enter the United States, were reported to be matching wits with federal and state guards on the Atlantic Coast and the Canadian border today.

Raid, seizures and arrests marked today's engagements in the border battle between bootleggers and United States authorities near Detroit, where the smugglers are trying to bring their contraband in from Canada.

The prohibition officers took the offensive along the line, throwing more troops into action along the river districts and running down the small speedy power boats that came pattering over from the Canadian border with their cargoes of nine per cent.

Prohibition enforcement officers, realizing the hugeness of their task, are considering a request for a loan of several destroyers from the navy.

SUSPECT INSANITY

DODGE BY MAHONEY

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 16.—James E. Mahoney, charged with the murder of his aged, wealthy and eccentric wife, Kate Mahoney, today will be brought into public for the first time since he began to show signs of alleged insanity.

This afternoon he is to be taken before Judge Otis Brinker to plead. He was freely predicted that he would stand mute before the court and refuse to answer questions.

In such a case the state would be forced to choose between trying him for insanity or taking the position that his insanity is a sham and trying him for murder. He is accused of killing his wife and casting her body, concealed in a trunk, into Lake Union near Seattle.

Mahoney's actions for the last few days have attracted much attention. Last night he reached the climax of his "queerness" when, after writing a letter begging the blackhand not to kill him, he hung his shoes high in his cell, called them canaries and tried to wheedle from them a song.

SUSPECT MURDER AS NOTED GOLFER DIES

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—The killer of J. Douglas Edgar, noted golf star, was being sought today with renewed vigor by Atlanta police, following the statement of Lamar Poole, chief of detectives, that the golfer, in his opinion, was murdered instead of hit by an automobile as was first thought.

Edgar died to death from a deep gash just above one of his knees. There were no other bruises on his body.

SLEEPER TO ATTEND ASSESSOR MEETING

County Assessor James Sleeper will leave here today for Oakland where he will attend the annual convention of county assessors. The convention will be in session Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Sleeper stated that the convention would take the form of a round table discussion of matters pertaining to the work of the assessors.

MOB BURNS BODY
 KOOLIDGE, Tex., Aug. 16.—The body of Alex Wynn, negro, was taken from an undertaking establishment early today by a mob and burned. Wynn was hanged by a mob yesterday at Datura. He was accused of assaulting a seven year old girl.

The members of the fifth household economics section of the Ebell club spent yesterday with Mrs. Cood Adams at her summer home on the bay front at Balboa.

A surprise luncheon, and a stork shower for one of the members of the section featured the enjoyable day.

A surprise luncheon is one where each person brings something unknown to the others, and it was quite surprising what an elaborate menu was evolved from the various hampers and boxes, without much repetition.

During the afternoon several of the members bathed in the bay, while others promenaded on the board walk at Balboa.

Those present were: Mmes. K. M. Brown, Roy Boberg, Cora Cavens, W. A. Cornelius, Raymond Moncrief, Jack Olivari, Charles C. Ocan, Herman Reuter, E. E. Roehm, E. B. Trago, Edward Walker Henry Walters, J. S. Warner and the hostess.

Little Miss Hester Lee Moncrief and Marjory Cornelius accompanied their mothers. Miss Daisy Finelle of Los Angeles, sister of Mrs. Moncrief was the section guest.

LAGUNA ART EXHIBIT OF GREAT INTEREST

With a reception attended by artists of international fame, art patrons from various Southern California and far-distant points and the editors of various publications, the West Coast Arts Incorporated, the newly organized women's art association, with headquarters at Laguna Beach, opened its first annual exhibition at the Tanberg galleries last Saturday evening.

The occasion marks the beginning of a new era in the art development of Orange county and Southern California and has created widespread interest throughout the country. The exhibition will be open until September 11.

The reception was a thoroughly delightful affair, presided over by Mesdames A. E. Tanberg, Mabelle Lord Foster, Marie Kendall, L. L. Ferguson, R. C. Colman and the Misses Dona Shuster and Annie Gayne Peake.

"On the Veranda," by Miss Donna Shuster, of Los Angeles, is the most charming picture in the exhibit, according to the judges. Her two figures, comfortably seated in the dappled sunlight, filtering through purple vines, are well drawn and full of beautiful color. The composition is excellent and the subject is well handled, the light and dark arrangement being considered very fine, indeed.

"A Pair of Geese," by Jessie Arms Botke, Chicago Art Institute, is easily the most striking and best-remembered picture. It is particularly interesting in composition and drawing. There is great dignity of arrangement, and this is the quality that makes it a striking picture.

"Tena Lady," by May Noble, an Eastern artist, is a study of the head of an Indian girl. It is strong and fine in color, has the Indian quality very decidedly marked and there is considerable strength of portraiture.

Marie B. Kendall shows two nice bits of painting—"The Swirl," a glimpse of the coast at Carmel, with its cypress trees and black rocks seen against the swirl of the ocean, the "Idyl of Spring" shows beautifully drawn eucalyptus trees seen against the mountain, with a valley in the middle distance.

A beautiful bas-relief of Paderewski, by Mrs. Mabelle Lord Frost, has power in the thoughtful pose of the head and in the restraint of the handling.

Quaint Scene
Odd in subject and interesting in composition and drawing is "Exiles," by Ella Hotelling Tanberg, president of the West Coast Arts Incorporated. It shows a typical circus scene—an old elephant and pierrot mourning together, and alone over lost fortunes in a remote corner under the "big top." Mrs. Tanberg grew up in a circus town and knows whereof she paints.

Bringing a breath of the spirit of the old world are two notable works by Miss Fannie Duvall, who was in France throughout the war and who was one of the few American painters to carry on with her work there during the conflict. "Torcello" shows some old buildings reflected in a pool of oil. "St. Leger, France," is a pastel of a little town seen in the distance across a foreground of green fields. Miss Duvall's pastels are wonderfully rich in color and catch to the full the inimitable atmosphere of France.

"Garden of Lanterns," a colorful study seen under the mellow light of Japanese lanterns, is offered by Lillian Prest Ferguson, one of the moderns among Laguna painters.

Two charming portrait miniatures by Magda Heuerermann, "Polish Baby" and "Master Hamilton," are fine in both color and feeling.

Old-World Atmosphere
Of great interest is the miniature by Ella Shepard Bush, who took for her subject the character of Michel in Robert Browning's poem, "Paracelsus." The picture has caught fully the spirit of Browning's character and the thirteenth century atmosphere of the poem. It has a marvelous old-world charm about it and looks as though it might have been painted hundreds of years ago to illustrate an ancient vellum-bound book.

Miss Beulah May, of Santa Ana, has graced the exhibit with two pieces of sculpture, individual and original in both treatment and subject. They are at once sardonic and classical in their nature. "Hecate" is the ancient tri-formed goddess in control of heaven, earth and hell; "Satanas," winged and diabolical, has his own boon companion, the great serpent, in affectionate proximity.

Other pictures of interest to the observer are Grace McKinstry's "Dixie," a charming pastel sketch of a young girl of the South, and her "Washday in Laren," a water color reminiscent of the Dutch school; Anne L. Pogson's flower studies, which are nice in tone and quality; Minnie Tingle's still life and Dell Meadows' glimpse of an evening sea from a high promontory.

Evalina Nunn, formerly of Santa Ana, and now in Japan, has some pictures en route to the exhibition. They have been held up somewhere in their long journey overseas, but are expected to arrive shortly for the remainder of the month's hanging. "The Doll's Dressmaker," by M. Lesley Bush-Brown, is also en route to the exhibition from Washington, D. C.

Personnel of Exhibitors
The personnel of the artists and their subjects now on exhibition follows:

Jessie Arms Botke, "A Pair of Geese"; M. Lesley Bush-Brown, "The Doll's Dressmaker"; Ella Shepard Bush, "Michel in Paracelsus"; Fannie E. Duvall, "Torcello, Italy," and "St. Leger, France"; Lillian Prest Ferguson, "Garden of Lanterns"; Mabelle Lord Frost, "Paderewski"; Magda Heuerermann, "Polish Baby" and "Master Hamilton"; Marie B. Kendall, "The Swirl" and "An Idyl of Spring"; Kathryn W.

Bakes Biscuits in 6 to 8 minutes

Average of 5 feet of Gas for Baking Biscuits

Think of putting your baking in a cold oven. Yet that is the DIRECT ACTION way—because a DIRECT ACTION oven heats instantaneously. There is no wait to heat the oven before baking—this saves your gas and time. Other ranges use from eight to ten feet of gas just to prepare the oven for baking. Biscuits are finished in a DIRECT ACTION before the old style range is ready to receive the baking.

We have a selection of a dozen beautiful styles in DIRECT ACTION gas ranges. One of these models is the only range made with entire lining of porcelain and porcelain work outside. One of the more economical DIRECT ACTION ranges has a side oven, a broiler, has porcelain door panels, and porcelain walls next to gas jets. This range is priced at

WOMAN AGAINST WOMAN; $3000 IS ASKED

Alleging that Clara L. Smith broke open the door of her room, removed a trunk, suit cases, bedding and silverware, wearing apparel, letters and documents and threw the articles into a barn back of the house in which she had been living, Mrs. Clara W. Gibbs, a widow of Anaheim, today filed suit against Mrs. Smith for $3000 damages.

Mrs. Gibbs claims that she was in possession of two rooms in a dwelling house occupied jointly with Mrs. Smith, when the latter ordered her out. Mrs. Smith, according to Mrs. Gibbs, gave her three days notice to vacate. She could not find a place to live in that time, she says, and then Mrs. Smith became angered. Mrs. Gibbs asserts she was damaged to the extent of $1000. She asks that that amount be trebled. Eden and Koepsel are attorneys for the plaintiff.

THREE BURGLARIES IN COUNTY REPORTED TO SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Three burglary jobs were reported to the sheriff's office today and Deputy Sheriff Herman J. Zabel secured finger prints at one place that may lead to the arrest of one of the thieves.

C. E. Sanny, 735 Chapman avenue, Orange, reported that some time between August 6 and 11 his home was entered and robbed of the following articles: Two overcoats, one man's suit, several dresses and shirtwaists, one alligator pocketbook, one locket, three strings of beads and three rings.

The aggregate value of the loot is around $400, it was stated.

H. B. Anderson, of Westminster, reported the loss of 63 Barred Rock chickens. The chickens can be identified by the mark of a leather punch, applied by puncturing the web of the feet of the chickens.

H. H. Hanford Jr., Garden Grove, reported that a burglar entered his home during his absence last night and stole one $5 bill, a camera, one lavallier, one signet ring and a gold watch chain.

GAMBLER MEXICANS PAY FINES, TOTAL $230

Twenty-three Mexicans contributed a total of $230 to the county coffers when haled before Justice of Peace Cox late yesterday on charges of gambling in violation of a county ordinance.

Nine were taken in a raid conducted at La Habra Saturday night by Sheriff C. E. Jackson, Under Sheriff E. E. French, and Deputies Ballard and Zabel. Fourteen were taken in a raid at Placentia by Under Sheriff French and Deputy Wood.

The two groups were brought before Judge Cox separately. Every man entered a plea of guilty as his name was called. And all paid fines.

Twenty-five or thirty Mexican friends and relatives of the defendants appeared in the courtroom at the arraignment. They were ready with cash when a few of the guilty ones made their appeal for a loan.

Judge Cox told the men collectively that they might return to the Hotel de Lacy if they so desired.

"You can get your supper, a night's lodging and breakfast without cost," he told them, but none accepted the invitation.

HOWAT IS SUMMONED BY UNION CHIEF

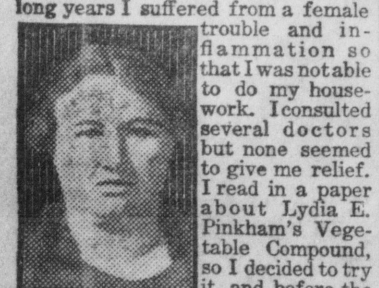

PITTSBURG, Kan., Aug. 16.—Alexander Howat, president of the Kansas Miners' union, has been called before the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America, meeting at Indianapolis. The summons came from President John L. Lewis and interrupted Howat's speaking campaign against the industrial court law.

It is understood Howat was called in connection with the investigation of the strike at the Dean Coal & Mining company's plant which has kept the plant idle for four months. A committee from the international board investigated and reported to President Lewis that the Dean strike was unlawful.

SUFFERED SEVEN LONG YEARS

Finally Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ravenswood, W. Va.—"For seven long years I suffered from a female trouble and inflammation so that I was not able to do my housework. I consulted several doctors but none seemed to give me relief. I read in a paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I decided to try it, and before the first bottle was gone I found great relief so I continued using it until I had taken eight bottles. Now I am very well and can do my own housework. I can gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine to suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA LIERING, R. F. D., Ravenswood, W. Va.

The ordinary day of most housewives is a ceaseless treadmill of washing, cooking, cleaning, mending, sweeping, dusting and caring for little ones. How much harder the tasks when some derangement of the system causes headaches, backache, bearing-down pains and nervousness. Every such woman should profit by Mrs. Liering's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

EXTEND OIL LEASE IN SANTIAGO CANYON

A six months' extension of the oil lease of the Orange County Petroleum company on property in Santiago canyon belonging to the John T. Carpenter Water company and the Sorano Water company was on record here today. The lease covers 100 acres on what is known as the "water ranch" and was made a year ago. The extension is for a period of six months from October 27, 1921.

According to the statement today of A. O. Hodson, of El Modena, the Orange County Petroleum Oil company has been reorganized and extension of the lease has been granted in the reorganization movement.

The company is boring on the Monnette lease, adjoining the holdings of the water company, and the contract with the water company calls for drilling operations on the 100 acres within ninety days after oil is struck in the well on the Monnette lease. The well on this lease is now down about 1700 feet, and good oil indications have been found, according to reports reaching Hodson.

STATE ORDER BRINGS NO CHANGE IN RATE FOR GAS IN COUNTY

The order of the State Railroad commission reducing rates charged for gas by many California companies will not have any effect on rates for gas served by the Southern Counties Gas company in this county, according to information received today from J. C. Hayden, local manager for the Southern Counties company.

"The state order," said Hayden, "concerns only those places where artificial gas is served. We are serving natural gas. The reason for the reduction is where artificial gas is served is that oil used in producing the gas is now twenty-five cents a barrel less than formerly. The Southern Counties company serves artificial gas at Santa Monica and Santa Barbara and reduction will go into effect there."

PULLS GUN, TELLS WHAT HE THINKS OF DRIVERS OF AUTO

According to a report on file at the sheriff's office today a middle-aged man driving a Cadillac roadster, license number 521-610, stopped two young men riding in a Ford car between Huntington Beach and Seal Beach last night, "blessed them out" for "hogging the road" and then departed.

The information was received by Deputy Sheriff Roy Ballard. He was told that the man driving the roadster pulled a gun on the two men in the Ford. It was understood that the two machines were traveling in opposite directions. The roadster evidently was crowded off the highway. Anyway, the driver turned around, caught up with the Ford. The report stated that there was a New Orleans pennant on the rear of the roadster.

HONORS REQUISITION JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 16.—Governor Hyde today honored a requisition on the governor of California for the return to San Francisco of Otto Svoboda, who is wanted there for swindling his countrymen, Bohemians, of $525. He has been in custody of Kansas City police.

THOROUGHbred HENS ARE TAKEN BY THIEF

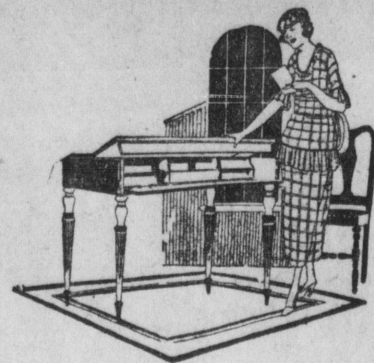

Chicken thieves who may understand the value of extra fine stock entered the runs of H. B. Anderson, Westminster poultryman, in the early morning hours yesterday morning and took sixty-eight of his best young cockerels and pullets, according to a report received here today.

He values his loss monetarily at about $100, but declares it will be double that from the standpoint of breeding purposes.

No trace has been found of the thieves, who had an automobile and evidently were prepared to take the entire brood, when they were interrupted by the squawking of some of the hens.

The man had perished from thirst and exposure, the officers said.

NEXT YEAR CITY WILL DO OWN ASSESSING IN ORDER TO GET FINANCES

Three Trustees Commit Themselves to Assessor-Tax Collector Project

MAYOR CANNOT SEE IT

Tubbs Outlines Reasons Why He Thinks Change Must Be Made

Santa Ana is to have a city assessor and city tax collector. Three city trustees are committed to a plan for establishing these offices.

With these offices established the Board of City Trustees will have the power to raise money with which to run the city government in the way they believe it should be run.

However, the new offices cannot be created and made effective until next year. The financial relief sought for the city through having its assessing and tax collecting done by the city instead of by the county will come for the fiscal year 1922-1923.

At present the city assessing and collecting is done by the county. The state has a tax limit beyond which a city tax rate cannot go. With the city fixing the assessment, the values can be raised so that a great deal more money can be raised when the county assessor's policy is to keep the valuations here in conformity with figures placed by him the county over.

Special Counsel Clyde Bishop and City Attorney G. H. Scott today are under instruction from the city council to proceed to draft an ordinance creating the two city offices in preparation for making them operative in January of next year.

Situation Outlined
 Discussion of city finances was brought up by the first reading of an ordinance fixing the tax rate for the new year. It was referred to the city attorney and will be given its final reading at the next meeting, when the apportionment of the $1 limit to various funds will be made.

The assessed valuation of the city, as made by County Assessor James Sleeper, is $9,717,875 as against $9,076,950 last year, or a gain of $640,925. The valuation will bring the city in taxes $97,178.75. Other income will increase the city revenue for the year to about $112,000. Increase in the income from taxes over the past year will amount to $6,409.25.

"Now that we are getting ready for the tax rate for the coming year that we should take steps to establish the offices of city assessor and tax collector for the year following," declared City Trustee J. W. Tubbs, in opening the discussion for creation of the new offices. "It is the only solution to developing funds sufficient to carry on the business of the city properly. We shipped out last year, when we passed the mat-

Santa Ana Anglers to Be Featured In a Chalmers Sports Story

How interested would Santa Ana be in a story written about themselves?

How would it seem to be held up to the gaze of the reading public at large?

Not in the analytical manner in which the dwellers on "Main Street" in Sinclair Lewis' book of that name were presented to the public, but in a kindly manner relating the various experiences of some of the ardent fishermen of the city?

For such a possibility has arisen, and it may be that in the near future, many of the followers of Isaac Walton scattered throughout the city, may recognize themselves in some of the characters to appear in "The Fishing Tackle Shop."

Stephen Chalmers, well known for his stories of adventure and the great outdoors, is contemplating such a series. A modern "De-camera" whose characters, instead of being drawn together by the common bond of a plague which swept and devastated London, are drawn by the bond of a love for fishing. The action of the story, as outlined by the writer, will center in the shop which will be instantly recognized by local readers, and the "Fishing Tackle Man" himself will be equally well known. The lovers of the sport of fishing who frequent the shop, from the small boy who plans to fish in the creek to the old man who has been one of the characters, "Will have a peck of fun ever, if he don't catch a single fish," to the expert who debates the relative merits of a "royal coachman" or "a rack."

They will all be there in the pages, and each one will be reminded of an interesting experience in his own life, by something which comes up on the part of the customer.

The tales will vary from the gently humorous stories of boyhood days to the thrilling experiences befalling those in search of adventures wild.

Whether the series will be presented soon remains to be seen, but at least the outline of the plot and the general trend of the stories are both well formed in the mind of the author, and since the different characters all live and move and have their being here in Santa Ana, it is safe to say that when the series of stories appear, there will be appreciative chuckles heard locally and such comments as "Why that's Blank to a T! Don't you remember when he had that great experience at Silver Lake?" and "Great Scott! I wonder how Chalmers learned about that trip to Big Bear? I thought that was a dark secret!"

SAY FURNITURE PRICES WON'T GO LOWER

Santa Ana Dealers Return from San Francisco Gathering

With furniture prices today between thirty and thirty-five per cent lower than they were last fall, no further decline in prices can be expected until labor, fuel and transportation costs are reduced.

This was the expression of J. C. Horton and Ray Chandler, local furniture dealers, who are home today from San Francisco, where they passed last week in viewing a display of the latest creations in furniture as exhibited by wholesalers. W. H. Spurgeon, furniture dealer, also was in San Francisco. He came home the latter part of last week and went to Catalina for the week end.

Dealers were present from all over the Pacific coast. They were being called to the northern city for the purpose of viewing the display and mingling with dealers from many different points on the coast and as far east as Denver.

The furniture displays were in the new eight-story building of the San Francisco Furniture Exchange, the building covering nearly a block. Every floor had samples of the household goods.

The exhibit was continued for eight days with a program each day. One of the outstanding features was dedication of the exchange Friday afternoon of last week to the "better home movement" by Mrs. Reinhardt, president of Mills seminary.

"Furniture factories are in operation and are running to nearly normal capacity, according to reports of factory representatives present," said Horton today. "They are operating on full time with large forces. This is an indication of the way business is coming back."

"Manufacturers, jobbers and retailers are anticipating return soon to full normal business conditions, so far as the furniture world is concerned. It is not likely that prices will return to the pre-war normal but buying undoubtedly will."

"Furniture prices have slumped between 30 and 35 per cent since last fall," said Chandler. "The quotations of today are more or less stable and in all probability will remain where they are until there is a readjustment of labor, fuel and transportation costs."

"The consensus of opinion among wholesalers and manufacturers was that prices had been lowered to bedrock under manufacturing costs as they are today."

Chandler was accompanied to the northern metropolis by Mrs. Chandler, the couple motoring north.

Mrs. Horton went north with Mr. Horton, the two traveling by train. They went to Lake Tahoe for a short stay and stopped over in San Francisco on their way home. They met N. A. Beals, of this city at Lake Tahoe.

PAVING OF MAIN IS DAMAGING P. E. STRIP

Bishop Says Railway Will Have to Do Repairing On Its Strip

The Pacific Electric right of way pavement on Main street, from Seventh to the north city limits, will be pretty much of a wreck by the time paving is completed on that street, in the opinion of George R. Curtis, paving contractor, as expressed at the regular meeting of the city council last night.

Curtis appeared before the board for information as to who is to become responsible for replacing of paving on both sides of the track.

The contractor said that it would be necessary for trucks hauling material to the work to pass over the right of way. Removal of the dirt on each side of the right of way has left the base of the built up roadbed unsupported on the sides and it is the opinion of the contractor that when heavy loads pass over the right of way the loose rock under the track will be pushed out and the P. E. paving damaged.

Up to the P. E. Special Counsel Bishop advised that it would be up to the Pacific Electric to repair its tracks after the paving job is completed and that it would be compelled to put down the same kind of pavement that is being built on the street.

Paving on West Fifth street came up in a more or less informal discussion. It is proposed to pave that street full width from Baker to English street or a point near that street, depending on how far west it will be necessary to go in order to carry off storm water to advantage. From the end of the full width pavement to the city limits it is proposed to build three-foot shoulders on each side, increasing the paving width to twenty-six feet, and to build on top of the old pavement.

Whether the improvement will be of four-inch concrete and inch-and-a-half surface of five-inch concrete on top of the old pavement has not been determined. It is believed that the addition of a five-inch reinforced concrete will tie in the concrete shoulders effectively. It was the opinion of the councilmen that whatever is done there should be of permanent and substantial character. When decision is definitely made as to the character of the improvement, it is possible that steps will be taken promptly to provide for the work. It is proposed to make the improvement under the assessment district plan. It is possible that a cement bridge to replace the wooden structure west of English street will be included in the improvement plans.

Will Pave Cypress. As indicating its intention to force paving on Cypress avenue from Chestnut to Main street, the council directed the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for paving that section with three-and-a-half inch concrete and inch-and-a-half asphalt surface.

A petition asking for the work was filed months ago and the installation of water, sewer and gas pipes were put down on the street. Later it developed that property owners who had signed the petition were not agreed as to the character of pavement that should be put down and the work was halted. It was declared last night that it would be impossible to secure the signatures of all the property owners to a private contract. The council action of last night indicates that the work will proceed under a street act.

Steale Finley presented a 100 per cent signed contract for paving Washington avenue from Main to Broadway and was granted permission to enter upon the street to do the work.

Flower street, from First to Fairview will be paved under street proceedings, with a district formed for paying the cost.

With drugists and physicians complaining that under the city prohibition ordinance recently adopted bonded whiskey could not be prescribed for medicinal purposes, Special Counsel Bishop submitted an amendment making the local ordinance conform with the provisions of the Volstead act so far as the quantity of liquor that may be given on prescription is concerned. The city ordinance limits the amount to eight ounces, whereas the Volstead limit is sixteen ounces.

Cannot Break Seals. According to statements by Bishop, drugists advised him that they were not permitted to break seals on bonded goods. Bonded goods in the smallest amount come in sixteen-ounce packages. Bulk goods only can be given under the present ordinance and it is conceded that the quality is not as good as the bonded liquor.

The amendment will be adopted at the next meeting of the council. L. H. Padgham appeared before the council and suggested that effort be made to have the Pacific Electric company discontinue its practice of collecting fares on its local car to Orange while the car stops on Fourth at Main. It is a one-man car and Padgham declared that collection of the fare cause a longer stop than necessary at that point. The result is that traffic is congested at times. It was suggested that the car be run to Fifth or Sixth streets before fares are collected.

Tubbs complained of the habit of the company of making a parking station for its cars at the end of the East Fourth street line. He said that many automobile accidents have been caused by the cars standing at the end of the line, the mishaps occurring when machines coming west turned across Fourth to go

ROTARIANS OF THREE CITIES ARE TO PICNIC AT PARK THURSDAY

Local Rotarians, Rotarianettes and their friends have been in the "seventh heaven of delight" since the program for the big barbecue at Orange county park Thursday afternoon and evening has been disclosed.

The Rotary clubs of Long Beach and Anaheim are to participate and will arrive here en masse in automobiles about 2:15 p. m. Thursday, and will meet the local Rotary adherents at West Fourth and Artesia streets, from which place they will parade through Santa Ana, thence to the county park.

The sports committee has a fine time planned with tug-of-war, speed and stunt races, ladies' nail driving contest and egg races as features. The ball teams of Long Beach and Santa Ana Rotary will play for the diamond honors.

Prizes for the winners of the contests will be given. The "eats" have been described as "ham-what-am, corn-on-the-cob, ice-cream watermelon and all the fixins." Special emphasis has been made on the fact that "Duffy" will be chef, and members are asked to wear extra long belts.

The ball game between Santa Ana and Long Beach is scheduled as a hummer. Last year Long Beach won the contest.

BALBOA PLANS FOR LIGHTS CARNIVAL

Balboa teemed with excitement today over plans for their tenth annual "carnival of lights," set for Saturday night, August 20.

Joseph A. Beek, harbor master at Newport and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee for the carnival, was the busiest man in the little beach resort today. Preparations are being made to handle what is expected to be the largest crowd in the history of Balboa.

Many entries have already been filed for the big night water electrical parade which will be laid out through deep water and the route buoyed and policed so that no boat owner need hesitate to take part. It is announced.

The Pasadena Chamber of Commerce, Balboa Chamber of Commerce, Pomona College, California Institute of Technology, Occidental College, Newport Bay Investment company and Balboa Island have all signified their intentions to enter decorated floats and the committee in charge hope that similar entries will be made by the Santa Ana and Anaheim Chambers of Commerce and the Fullerton Board of Trade.

C. Paulson Visel and Frank Smith have jointly entered a float. Skipper Everett Gardner will put the yacht, Rana, in the line of parade; J. A. Beek, his sloop Carrolle; Commodore Claude G. Putman, his flagship Joy.

According to announcement today there will be 5 divisions to the parade—floats, yachts, motorboats, rowboats and canoes. At least 3 prizes will be awarded for each division including banners, boat lamps, canoe cushions, bathing suits and boxes of candy.

PAINTS CANVAS TO LINGER IN MEMORIES

Laguna Beach has painted a picture and hung it in the gallery of memory.

Its motive was to provide a fireproof gallery to protect individual canvases. The community canvas needs no material protection, it will live despite years and the elements. The community canvas is not the work of one or more professional artists, but the expression in service of a people, instinctively artistic.

We are told that a rancher wrote the script of Kitshi-Manido, the Peace-Pipe Pageant Play; that a cobbler wrote the music; that the postmaster played a leading part, and a Scotch nobleman directed the whole. Further we are told that the real estate man, and the building contractor appeared in the caste that included an actress of international fame.

But credit for the success of the first performance, given last night, cannot be given to any one of these more than to each individual of the caste, which numbered 100 persons. It was distinctly a community success.

Service, and service is but the work-a-day name for love, was pronounced in the words of the play as a principle of the Great Spirit, Kitshi-Manido, but, last night, service, or love, was shown to be a living principle of Laguna Beach as a community.

From the youngest babe that flitted through the fairland of that natural theater, the eucalyptus grove, to the shaggy-haired chief, service, and service was the motive extension.

The pageant at Laguna Beach undoubtedly will be an annual event, and those who make the pilgrimage will recall with pleasure the first production, which is being given this week. Like first-nighters in a metropolis, the pageant pilgrims will feel a justifiable pride in telling less fortunate companions that they have never missed viewing the annual outdoor play since its inception.

It is a simple matter to become prophetic after witnessing the initial performance of Laguna Beach in its Peace-Pipe Pageant. To have been one of the silent audience, that absorbed every word, every action, every picture that appeared during the two and one-half hour production, is to be convinced that the community canvas will be exhibited each year with the inevitable regularity of the August moon.

One goes with a mental reservation to view a paradox, the cobbler, the realtor, and builder in plaster and brick, and the grower of grain decked in the panoply of history and art. One leaves, perhaps a little awed, then recalls with wonder that the cobbler, the realtor, the contractor, and the rancher were absent, only history and art lived in the work of their hands and brain.

Judging from the attendance at this first performance, the natural bowlike theater will have been visited by every able-bodied person in Orange county before the final chorus leaves the stage next Saturday night.

HERE ARE PARAGRAPHS CONCERNING PAGEANT 'NEATH AUGUST MOON

"Why didn't the audience run when they first saw me in my make-up?" queried Miss Virginia Calhoun after the performance, as she vainly tried to remove some of the grease paint with which her face was plentifully covered. "When I looked in the mirror, I was actually afraid of myself," she continued, but was assured that from the front, her appearance was all that could be desired, as the copper skinned mate of a primitive warrior chieftain.

The famous war drum made so prominently by F. W. Cuprien, proved to be all that had been promised for it in the way of resonance and timbre. A light was kept within the drum all during the performance, in order that the evening dampness might not destroy the depth of tone.

While a high fog soon dimmed the radiance of the full moon at the first performance, yet the air was filled with the softened glow, and some were heard to express themselves as believing that it added to the spiritual qualities of the offering rather than detracted.

"The acoustics of the natural amphitheatre seem remarkable in view of the size of the stage," commented Malcolm S. Maclean, member of the producing board. "But it was a true statement, for those seated in the farthest seats were able to hear every word as distinctly as those in the front row, and all with no unusual effort on the part of the cast members. Seating arrangements have been made for 2,000 persons while in the event of an unusual crowd, extra seats may be arranged for at a moment's notice."

Through courtesy of J. W. Tubbs, members of The Register staff rode to the Peace-Pipe Pageant Play at Laguna Beach in a Stephens Salient sport model car, last night. Paul Smith of the White Motor company, of which Tubbs is manager in Santa Ana, volunteered as driver. The car, Smith said, was being broken in by the local agency for the district manager, O. R. Fuller, who controls the territory between Bakersfield and San Diego for the White Motor company. The Santa Ana branch of the company handles the Stephens and White cars, and also is the headquarters of the Motor Transit stage line. The ride to and from the beach was delightful.

SOLEMN BEAUTY MARKS PAGEANT PERFORMANCE AT LAGUNA BEACH

Crowd Fairly Awed by Wonder Play Given Beneath August Moon

FIRST NIGHT SUCCEEDS

Story of Peace Pipe Achievement Repeated Each Night This Week

"Out of the cycle of service the Gods bestow their gifts." The solemn chant reached to the inner consciousness of the vast crowd gathered last night in the natural amphitheatre at Laguna Beach, to witness the premiere performance of "Kitshi-Manido," the Peace Pipe Pageant.

Long before eight o'clock, the appointed hour for the opening of the performance, the roads leading to the little city by the sea, were crowded with automobiles and soon the seats arranged under the swaying eucalyptus branches were filling with interested spectators.

As the first bars of music swept from behind the curtaining branches, a little wave of awe swept the crowd, there was such a strain of the barbaric and the primitive in the notes and the measured beat of the Indian drum. As the lights were switched off and the moon-bathed scene appeared, the entire audience was in perfect sympathy with the actors, a sympathy made apparent by the complete silence which marked the occasion.

Woodland Scenery
 The woodland scene in which the entire cast appeared in the visional prelude was most beautiful. As there came the high chant of the invocation of the high priest calling for the council to make medicine in the Medicine Lodge of the sky, the east in the various interpretations gathered while the Potter, the Basket Maker and the Blanket Weaver offered their gifts to Kitshi-Manido and then strode from the scene, the chorus in the background giving a musical version of their chants.

Only a short intermission followed the visional prelude, and when the curtain before the stage was again withdrawn it was to the "Chant of Creation" by Mejella, the Wood-Dove, priestess of the Kitshi-Manido. In her chant could be heard all the melody, all the sweetness and all the plaintive sadness of the wood dove's calling, and her fluttering blue draperies and unbound hair, added to the effect.

Probably the prettiest effect in the entire first act, however, was the appearance of the Cobweb fairies who wove their web in an intricate pattern all over the woodland. Their childish calling of "We know a secret" as they watched over the meeting of the youth Ah and the maiden Wahwona, sounded like a tinkle of fairy bells.

The incidental music added an unusual value to each scene, reflecting as it did, every change of theme and gradation of spirit. The life of the play, the reluctance to admit love to her heart was charmingly done, and the final declaration of mutual love in the duet "Beneath these Grand Old Trees," which marked their betrothal as Ah wound the garlands of flowers around Wahwona.

Beautiful Dancing

The intermission between the next two acts was devoted to one of the most beautiful interpretative dances imaginable, as Miss Thelma Farnum in filmy draperies gave her interpretation to the chant of the "Peace Smoke." As the thick clouds of smoke arose, she seemed to be a creature of spirit rather than of form, and at times her very features seemed to dissolve into the swaying, rising wisps.

The lights which played on the writhing smoke clouds and the weaving dancer ran from smoky shadows to brief flashes of flame, heightening the almost supernatural effect.

In the second act, the tepes and all the settings of a warrior chieftain's campground formed a background for the splendid emotional acting of Virginia Calhoun whose interpretation of Wahwona in the splendid flowering of her womanhood was unusually fine.

At the close of the act, a weirdness was reached with the appearance of the evil Ishiganebogs, the dreaded "Desert Rattlers" who in their striking war paint simulating the markings of the diamond back rattler, were awe inspiring and hideous.

In silence so absolute that the tiny breath of breeze might be heard stirring, the hateful tribesmen chanted of their coiling in the tents to strike the women and children, and as they seized and bound Wahwona to a tree, it was with a thrill that the onlookers saw her rescue by the returning warriors of her chieftain husband's hunting party.

Climax In Story

When Ab, the wounded warrior splendidly played by E. E. Jahraus, was carried in by his grief stricken braves, and Wahwona realized that his victory had been at the fearful cost of his life by an Apache's poisoned arrow, her grief was terrible to behold, and it was at this point that the climax of the play was reached. Although it is later when Ab, restored by the devoted sacrifice of Wahwona, and realizing the inspiration of her vision, breaks his war spear and hurls his war bonnet to the earth, raising aloft, the peace pipe which shall in future rule his tribe, that the real inner meaning of the Peace Pipe appears.

The final act was the peaceful old age of the devoted couple, and the primitive, walled hut in the midst of the swaying trees formed a background for the aged couple played by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Frazee to whom their loyal people bring the gifts inspired by love. The nature and variety of these gifts, and the manner in which they were bestowed made a beautiful scene and as the finale approached and the Evening Star chorus chanted the Peace Hymn to the crooning accompaniment of a single violin, the Wood Dove priestess appeared and led the aged couple down the Way of Shadows while with a deep sigh of appreciation, the audience came slowly back to the realization that they were no longer witnessing tribal rites of a primitive race.

south on Breeden street. The electric cars obstruct the views of the drivers of automobiles. He suggested that the company be compelled to run its cars from the south track to the north when the cars are to be left standing for a half hour or longer, and also that the company be prohibited from standing its cars at the intersection of Breeden.

Upon motion of Tubbs, placing of buttons at Breeden and Fourth and Grand avenue and Fourth was ordered.

The city attorney was directed to write the Pacific Electric with reference to the matters discussed by Tubbs and Padgham and also with reference to installation of culverts across its tracks at Main and Birch streets.

Ask Juice Connection

With City Engineer Hoy declaring that it took Orange five months to get the Edison Electric company to connect with the ornamental system in that city, the council last night voted to at once file an application for juice for the lighting system on Main street so there will be no delay in getting service when the system is completed.

Attorney John A. Harvey appeared for Turner Downen asking for permission to operate a popcorn stand on Sprague street at the corner of Fourth. Written consent of the Wind-god Drug company was filed. A temporary permit was issued.

Notice was given the board that hearing on the petition of the P. E. to raise its rates would be held in Los Angeles on September 27. City Attorney Scott was directed to attend the hearing.

Requests for street lamp on Shelton, between Fifth and Hickley, and one at the corner of Durant and Sixteenth, were granted.

David McLeod was granted permission to run a water pipeline across Bristol street a short distance south of First.

Request of Brown & Bowles for permission to hang an electric sign on their garage building was granted. C. W. Rowland arranging for the sign.

Ask for Conference

The city clerk was directed to invite the park commission to meet with the council Monday evening next to discuss the matter of delegating to the commission control over the removal and planting of trees in street parkings.

J. G. Robertson & company were granted permission to hang electric signs for the Examiner, 312 North Main, and the Murray cafe, 414 North Main.

SUNDAY EVENING'S PROGRAM ENJOYED BY LARGE AUDIENCE

Much enjoyment was expressed by a large crowd, gathered at Birch park Sunday night for the second of the series of union Sunday night services. No speaker had been provided for the occasion, but instead a sacred concert was given by the chorus choir made up of members from the choirs of all the churches sharing in the movement. Ellis Rhodes choir director of the First Christian church had charge of the program, which opened with a chorus, "God So Loved the World," followed by "O! For a Closer Walk with Thee," in which the soprano solo was carried by Miss Holly Lash whose clear resonant tones reached the farthest borders of the park.

Rummy's tenor solo, "It Is Only a Tiny Garden" was beautifully given by Ray Miles and was followed by the chorus in "Savior, When Night Involved the Skies" from Mendelssohn.

Robert Brown, ever a favorite with Santa Ana audiences, sang "Friend O' Mine" which was followed by "Festival Te Deum" in which the quartet work was done by Misses Holly Lash and Dorothy Mead and Ray Miles and Robert Brown, with the combined chorus in the refrain.

A collection taken at the close of the program will be added to the fund for the purchase of the piano which will be a permanent feature of the park.

NEXT YEAR CITY TO DO OWN ASSESSING

ter over in expectation of the proposed charter being voted.

"The state limit of $1 on $100 assessed valuation does not provide us with the funds we should have to do things we should do. The different funds we have 'broke' before we get the tax money in."

Cites the Figures

"We will have approximately $24,000 in the street fund. That isn't a starter — it will not much more than meet the payroll. The condition of our streets is ample evidence that the fund is not sufficient."

"The fire fund will amount to around $14,000, and this will not be enough to increase the department membership when we get into our new fire hall. We must have more men. This city cannot conduct its business on the $1 rate under the present assessed valuation."

"Our hands are tied," said Trustee Charles H. Chapman. "The outlook for the year certainly is a gloomy one. I see no way out of the dilemma except in the creation of the offices."

"There's no use in being held up longer — we need more money and let's get it by operating the offices," said Trustee H. H. Dale.

"I don't feel that we should have our city assessed by two different men, but if it is necessary I presume we should do it," was the comment of Trustee W. A. Greenleaf. By way of a side remark he stated that he was not convinced that establishment of the offices was necessary and he did not commit himself to support the proposition when it comes before the council in ordinance form.

Views are Given

"It will cost too much money for a city assessor and tax collector for the increased amount of money it will be necessary to raise," was the position taken by Mayor John G. Mitchell. "If the people wanted us to have the money they would not have voted down the charter." He stated positively that he would not support the ordinance creating the offices.

Tubbs — "We are here as representatives of the people to conduct the business of the city. We have the power to increase our revenue by this method. It is our duty to provide funds that will make it possible for us to keep our city abreast of the other progressive cities. If you, Mr. Mayor, were conducting a business of our own and were hampered in development of that business through lack of money, you would borrow it, wouldn't you? We can't borrow. We can increase our revenue by having an assessor to increase the valuation to proportions where the tax income would meet the requirements of the city."

"Our assessed valuation today is only a little over $2,000,000 more than it was a few years ago, and the wage schedules were a great deal lower than they are today and when other costs of city operation were much less."

Cost is Estimated

Asked as to what it would cost to maintain the offices of city assessor and tax collector, Mayor Mitchell said that off-hand he would place it at $6000 a year, quoting the statement later by saying that it might be more or it might be less.

City Clerk E. L. Vegely stated that it formerly had cost $1800 per year. It was conceded that the work could not be done now at that figure.

It will require the votes of three members to adopt an ordinance establishing the two offices. Tubbs, Chapman and Dale are definitely committed to the plan. When it will be presented is indefinite, it being possible to defer it to next January. The sentiment of the supporters of the movement was that it should be adopted at an early date to avoid any possible slip in making it effective for next year.

CONGRESSMEN AID IN WALNUT FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The entire California delegation in congress is co-operating with the California Walnut Growers' association in the fight to secure proper protection for the walnut-growing industry in the forthcoming tariff bill. It is pointed out that the importation of unshelled walnuts is going on on a large scale and the native growers are facing the keenest competition from Oriental nuts. The average importations from 1913 to 1917 were over 20,000,000 pounds annually, and during 1918, a war period, there was over 11,000,000 pounds, valued at $1,332,000, imported. The 1918 figures are the latest available, but the importation has been steadily growing since that time.

Congressman Swing in an interview today said: "We are doing all in our power to help the walnut industry. The duty of 2 1/2 cents in the Fordney tariff is entirely inadequate and we feel that the growers are entitled to fair protection. I think that the majority of California industries have been fairly well taken care of in the bill, but the walnut growers certainly are not. They have, in my opinion, an entirely just cause for complaint, and all the representatives from California are with them in their efforts to have the tariff fairly adjusted. California has such a widely diversified range of products that it is hard to get sufficient protection for all of them, but I think the walnut industry has fared worse than any of the others, and we shall spare no effort to have the matter adjusted on a fairer basis."

GOVERNMENT BUILDING PROGRAM IS STOPPED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—There will be no building this year by the United States aside from hospitals for the care of veterans of the World War. Formal notice to this effect has been sent to all congressmen and senators by the house committee on buildings and grounds.

Not only will there be no general building bill, as in former sessions, but all individual bills proposing additions or betterments or new buildings will be held in committee for this session. The reasons are the general policy of economy and retrenchment in expenditures.

Some time ago A. J. Crookshank, president of the First National bank, went fishing for trout. He goes often, but this time the tale concerns not the size of the fish but the character of a Mary Pickford movie outfit. The Crookshank car was locked and left at a spot a number of miles back in the mountains.

It so happened that this particular spot was where Mary Pickford had been starring in the making of a screen drama of huge proportions. There was one piece of property that did not fit into the story. That piece of property was an automobile.

When the Pickford company arrived they found an automobile resting right where Mary and the savages had lurked the day before and where it was necessary for the continuity of the picture that they lurk again.

MANY BUILDING CABINS ABOUT BIG BEAR LAKE

ta Ana that last year's assessment rolls showed 2000 buildings around the lake.

This year, how many? Wherever one goes about the lake, new camps and new cabins are springing up. Some prefer the out-of-the-way spots among the giant sugar pines, others are satisfied only with a knoll or point close to the lake's edge.

Big Bear lake has been a favorite camping spot for a great many Orange county people for years. Thirty years ago some of them used to travel almost every year to the lake. In those days it took three days by team to reach the place.

It is a different story now — travel to and from the lake.

A number of Santa Anans who are used to making the trip figure on driving to the lake from Santa Ana in six or seven hours, and the journey from the lake to Santa Ana is usually accomplished in an hour less than it takes to go up. Whatever road one takes, he travels through mountains of picturesque beauty and charm.

The pine-covered mountains, the lake, smooth as glass in the early morning and rippling blue the rest of the day, the beauty of settings, the rarified air, the delightfulness of the out-of-doors — Big Bear holds so many and such a variety of charms that it staggers description.

Big Bear for Big Movies

Most Santa Anans who attend the movies have seen a great deal of Big Bear lake and the surrounding country. Scores of big movie pictures have been made there. Most of the popular stars of the screen world have been featured in Big Bear pictures. Sometimes the scene was laid in the great Northwest or in Alaska. Big Bear has furnished the trees and the snow for these scenes.

Some time ago A. J. Crookshank, president of the First National bank, went fishing for trout. He goes often, but this time the tale concerns not the size of the fish but the character of a Mary Pickford movie outfit. The Crookshank car was locked and left at a spot a number of miles back in the mountains.

When the Pickford company arrived they found an automobile resting right where Mary and the savages had lurked the day before and where it was necessary for the continuity of the picture that they lurk again.

The $10,000-a-day salary — or whatever it is that Mary and her little salary are when they go to Big Bear — was on the verge of being cast to the mountain breezes that day.

There was nothing for the movie director to do but to get that automobile out of the way.

You can't pick up a Cadillac and set it out of the way, just like that! A messenger was sent over the mountain road to Big Bear for a truck, and the truck arrived, hitched itself on to the automobile and dragged it out of the particular scenery that Mary had to have to earn her salary that day.

Camps and Cabins

The south side of the lake is today one camp after another, one group of private properties after another. There are but three or four camps on the north side of the lake.

The water in the lake this year is lower than it has been in years. The rainfall was light and the stream allowed to flow from the great dam at the foot of the lake for the irrigation of orchards at Redlands has gradually lowered the level. Big Bear people are hoping and counting upon a heavy rainfall and snowfall the coming winter.

"The point to the right is called Eagle point. The residences on this point are owned by Santa Ana people."

This announcement is made by the guide-pilot-announcer who takes parties around the lake in the Sierra.

Eagle point is counted by many as the most beautifully situated on the lake. Over it are scattered scores of wonderfully fine sugar pines. Facing the lake are six mountain residences, built largely of rough log surfacing. The owners of five of the places are Santa Anans — A. J. and C. S. Crookshank, A. W. Rutan, Dr. P. R. Reynolds and George S. Smith.

The A. W. Rutan residence is occupied at present by H. L. McDermott and his family.

A number of Santa Anans own mountain homes on the south side of the lake about midway between Pine Knot and the dam. Among them are H. C. Dawes, Earl Matthews, C. F. Heil, W. W. Halesworth and T. J. Lewis. F. E. Farnsworth has a lot with this group and will build.

The Rev. P. F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, returned yesterday from a stay of several days at Big Bear cabin. He was accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Huston of Costa Mesa.

It's Here—The Electric Washer You've Been Waiting For —A New Machine At a New Price

SINCE electricity was adopted as a washday servant, the heads of countless families have been asking: When will we be able to buy a standard, all-metal, sure-action electric washer and wringer for $110? When can we buy a washer that is high in quality and low in price? A machine that washes rapidly and gently; that is strong, simple and attractive; that is easy to use and easy to clean; that is compact enough to fit into the small kitchen and large enough for any family —an all-metal electric washer which has all the improvements that inventive genius can devise and still is priced within reach of the moderate purse?

To all these questions Sunnysuds is the final answer. It's here—NOW—ready to demonstrate to your entire satisfaction.

Sunny Suds—A Remarkable Washer At A Remarkable Price—

The copper tub of the Sunnysuds is a revelation of thoroughness. Without the use of compensating springs, it is rocked through a wide arc with a sweep that sets up a powerful washing movement. The bottom is scientifically corrugated to supply the cleansing action of the washboard without its harmful effects.

Two perforated copper baffle plates are located above the water line to increase the efficiency of the washing wave by breaking it up into a foamy, swishing swirl of tiny streams. Rising several inches above the bottom of the tub, the arched hood of the sediment zone supplies additional agitation.

No dirt can long resist the Sunnysuds. Overall, dish cloths, bath rugs, obstinately dirty cuffs and collar bands come from the Sunnysuds tub delightfully clean and stainless. Its large capacity enables heavy blankets to be washed with speed and satisfaction.

The Sunnysuds is built for hard, steady work and will last a life time, but it washes delicate laces and flimsy garments perfectly and without the slightest harm.

No electric washer at any price surpasses the solid aluminum wringer equipment of the Sunnysuds. For the Sunnysuds wringer has improvements recently perfected and covered by patents.

Because the Sunnysuds wringer locks firmly into four positions, all rinsing and wringing can be done without moving the machine. From tub to rinse, from rinse to blue, and blue to basket takes just a few minutes—and the rolls can be tightened until the clothes will quickly dry on the line.

A touch of one lever stops the rolls or starts them turning either "in" or "out." And best of all, you can operate the wringer and tub at the same time, thus saving valuable washday minutes.

You owe it to yourself and family to see this remarkable machine in action. Come let us demonstrate it and remember —it's yours for only—

THE COUNTY FAIR

The time approaches for the County Fair at Huntington Beach and The Register esteems it a privilege as well as a duty to call attention to the fact and to commend the enterprise.

In recognition of the importance of the fair and its educational value to the community the supervisors have made liberal appropriations, which have stimulated interest in agriculture, horticulture, stock raising and added to the comfort of visitors to the fair grounds.

Plans for the fair indicate that it will be the best ever held in the history of the county. The premium list shows that the fair association has done its part to attract the best exhibitors and secure the largest possible educational results.

So the way is paved for one of the pleasantest and most valuable gatherings in the history of Orange county. It is an event which grows in importance and gains fresh interest every year. Here friends and neighbors meet and get new ideas and renew old ties. The man who exhibits, whether he gets a prize or not, helps to raise the standard of production in the countryside generally, just as his interest and study have raised his own standards. The visitor gets a new interest, enthusiasm and respect for the work of those who produce foodstuffs for the nation.

Morally, socially and economically a fair is a great thing.

Politicians who proceed upon the theory that one thing is right while something different is popular with the people, have something to learn. The right is always popular when people have a chance to get the facts.

A curious will is that of Judge Thomas E. Neville of Omaha. He has left property worth $2,000,000 or more, in real estate and good securities, providing that the whole property shall be kept intact until after the death of all living heirs. He has three children and seven grandchildren. His great-grandchildren are to divide up the estate, if they want to. He expresses a hope, however, that they will not want to, and that the income from it by that time will be so great that none of them will feel the need of taking a slice out of the principal.

The most curious thing about this plan is the fact that the testator is jumping over the heads of his living heirs and leaving his wealth to heirs yet unborn. According to any normal point of view, that amounts almost to leaving it to total strangers. He could know nothing of those heirs, and they will necessarily be only in small part his own blood. A child of the first generation is half his, of the second one-fourth, and of the third generation, which is to inherit his fortune, only one-eighth his. He could have no possible way of knowing what sort of people those heirs will be, and how they will use his money. Nothing could have actuated him but an odd pride in the idea of creating a great family estate.

The estate may grow big, in the 75 years or more during which it is to be held in trust. Estimates run to $100,000,000 and more. That, however, is extremely uncertain. Nobody knows what economic changes may come, nor how property may be taxed hereafter. Also—and this is possibly a thing that the testator has not fully considered—there are likely to be so many heirs by that time that there will be no more for them apiece than there would be for the present generation.

There are seven grandchildren now, and are likely to be several more. How many grandchildren will those grandchildren have? Enough, no doubt, to make short work of whatever political and business evolution and tax-collectors and trustees and others have left of that fortune. Judge Neville, in trying to control the future with a dead hand, has attempted the unwise and the impossible.

Arthur Brisbane says: "ONE mother reading a newspaper is better for the publisher than any TWO men—first because SHE IS BETTER; second, because the mothers spend the money, read advertising carefully, because they are economical, thus making the advertising pay and making the newspaper pay." In eight out of ten homes in Santa Ana's trade territory MOTHER reads The Register.

PROTECT THE VETERANS

Even the war veteran ostensibly provided for in a soldier's home is not receiving the protection he should, according to Col. C. R. Forbes of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. Evil men and women are preying upon the men in some of the government institutions. Poor management, a shortage of guards and general inefficiency account for the condition.

It is hoped that the senate committee investigating soldier relief agencies will find measures to stop all such abuses. It must be done for the sake of the men themselves, who in their depleted condition are less able to resist temptations than usual, and also for the sake of the public, whose efforts to aid the soldiers are nullified by all agencies operating against the soldier's welfare.

The distressing thing about the whole situation is that the accumulation of evidence as to wrongs and abuses seems to pile up faster than the evidences of improvement and relief.

The American people are crying out for immediate action.

What this country needs right now is some arrangement by which expenses could be met out of what Europe owes us.

VALUE OF QUEUE CUSTOM

An observing traveler remarks that one never sees a crowd struggling to get into an English street car, or anywhere else, for that matter. Passengers automatically line up, two by two, at terminals, amusement places, etc. Sometimes the line will be several blocks long, especially where football or race crowds are loaded.

As soon as a car is full it is dispatched on its trip. There is no fighting, no jolting, no disorder. Sometimes there are policemen or street car officials to see that people take their proper place in line, but their presence is seldom necessary. The orderly ones, who are vastly in the majority, see to it that nobody breaks the rule.

"Queues" the British call these waiting lines. They have been educated to the system through a long period of years until it has become second nature.

It seems odd that the plan has not been adopted long ago in America. We have it to some extent. Lines form as a matter of course in banks and in buying amusement tickets or railroad tickets. But the idea never seems to have been applied to the transportation problem involved in loading people on cars.

The present method, or lack of method, as seen in New York, Chicago and other populous cities, is absurdly inefficient and uncivilized, and even small towns are not free from reproach. Why not Americanize the "queue" and enforce respect for it?

What Little Bear Means

San Bernardino Sun

If, as we believe, the mountains are among San Bernardino's greatest business assets, then the announcement of the impending transfer of Little Bear Valley is of tremendous importance, for it probably means a program of development that will make this beautiful spot a vacation rendezvous for tens of thousands of people. That is by no means the only result that will follow, for the water long impounded there will certainly be carried to thirsty lands to make them fruitful and productive, while the latent power will likewise be sent out along the wires to turn the wheels of new industries and be man's servant in any capacity, from pumping more water to lighting and heating his home.

For the better part of 20 years the enterprise originally conceived by the Cincinnati capitalists has done little but mark time. An unexpected court decision—rendered in another county, but applicable to local conditions—forced a complete change from the original plans to bring the water to this side of the range and develop oceans of power in the nearly 4,000-foot drop from the Skyland bluff to the proposed site of the second power house just above the Arrowhead settlement. Since that decision, except for the completion of the dam, little has been done in Little Bear Valley.

But important as the water and the power are and will be, the feature that this city will find of first importance is likely to be the development of Little Bear Valley itself as a resort of incomparable advantage—incomparable in this, that it is miles closer and therefore hours nearer to the centers of population, and with its setting of lake and mountains and pine forests and its bracing air, the moment that it is made available we look to see a rush for summer homes there that will furnish the basis for a summer population to be numbered by the thousands.

What the plans of the purchasers are we are not advised, for they have not been announced, but it goes without saying that nobody is putting the better part of a million dollars into the property without expecting to start developments that will at once establish a market. The day that announcement is made first of all, that a domestic water supply is available, and then that lots are on the market, will witness something in the nature of a rush for summer homes in Little Bear, not at the expense of other desirable spots in the mountains, but merely supplementing them. For before another 10 years go by, the summer populations of both Little Bear and Big Bear Valleys will amount to those of populous cities, with Little Bear having the one advantage of accessibility, and with some slight changes in the roads, an item of no small importance, and it is not too early to bring to the attention of the State Highway Commission—this is now a state highway—the necessity of building a road around the south face of the Skyland bluff, and keeping on the south side all the way city for two miles, and then a highway near Pincrest, thence along the south face of Strawberry by the present road, and on to the head of Little Bear. And think what a summer-and-winter road into Little Bear would mean!

The announcement of the impending sale of the property is therefore of the greatest importance to this city for two reasons. It means lands made productive on the farther side of the range—at an estimated 50,000 acres, power perhaps equal to all that now used here in the valley, and the opening up of Little Bear Valley for summer homes and probably a splendid summer hotel on a large scale, the latter likely to be the most notable mountain hotel in all of Southern California.

After the Jay-Walkers

Riverside Press

Boston has taken a big forward step toward solving the city traffic problem by getting after the "jay-walkers." It may be explained, for the benefit of any one not familiar with the term, that a jay-walker is a human being who crosses a street like a cow or dog or chicken, where there is no street intersection or cross-walk. Boston has suffered particularly from this evil, because Boston streets are so narrow that people are tempted to cross them almost anywhere, and even to use them instead of the sidewalks. Vehicular traffic has been interfered with until the evil became intolerable. Recently the police have taken to arresting the jay-walkers. As a result, the streets are clearer than they have been for years, and automobiles have the freedom they need.

Thus it is recognized at last that the automobilist, as well as the pedestrian, has some rights. Lately the man at the wheel has had the worst of it. He has had to obey drastic laws, to the letter, while the pedestrian obeyed no law but that of his own free will.

If a motor car is required to respect pedestrian traffic at crossings, surely the pedestrians should be made to respect automobile traffic on the street between crossings, where vehicles have the right of way. This is tacitly understood everywhere, and explicitly stated in some city ordinances, but generally ignored in practice.

Walkers today are as much to blame for accidents as drivers. Other cities that suffer from the irresponsible meanderings of people afoot should follow Boston's example. Then, when the pedestrians do their part, it will be easier to deal with careless drivers.

ON ATTRACTING

Each of us is a sort of magnet in himself. About us are the beautiful things of the earth, as well as those things which are base and full of ugliness. But in order to attract those things which shall bring to us that sense of satisfaction which alone is able to make us happy, we must first have within us hidden elements of beauty with which to attract.

We are creatures of impulse. But our impulses must be watered at high tide. We must fill our reservoirs with those things which we most lack, so that at times when we need them most, we shall not draw from our wells and find them dry.

Who is it that is not thrilled in the presence of gentleness, overflowing sunshine, or generous warm-heartedness?

Often I pass on the street a personality that stays with me—and continues its inspiration simply because there was something about it of genuineness that radiated itself as it passed.

In like manner we may be that sort of personality to others unknown to us.

They tell me that a diamond cannot be dissolved. But the greatest thing about this stone is the fact that it is always attracting beauty to itself. It will not shine in the dark, but place it in the rays of the sun and it will dance and sing, even absorbing the light rays, itself thereby becoming brighter.

Every beautiful thing that you say is bound to attract more beautiful things.

The more you are able to appreciate loveliness, the more you are going to have it in your inner self, to radiate for the benefit of other people. And only as you have, are you going to be able to make others want.

Maeterlinck once wrote that "the soul changed into beauty the little things we gave to it."

Yes, we are a sort of magnet. But a magnet only attracts its own kind to itself!

HORATIO J. FORGY

One great Horatio held the bridge while Romans chopped it down, when Porsena and others sought an entrance to the town. Horatio Forgy holds the bridge when corporations shrink and litigants are suing them for damages and chink. He meets the opposition in the dusty legal fight, convincing judge and jury that his client's cause is right.

When bankers want to know what's what in laws of large finance, Horatio Forgy's on the job, their wisdom to enhance. When titles are obscured in doubt he brings the facts to view, which is another useful stunt for counsellors to do. When heirs divide in probate court the legacy that's left, he often lends some services of consequence and help.

He knows the lore of all outdoor; he's skilled in hunt and tramp, and he can conjure up all kinds of comfort in the camp. Not only can he hook and catch the smooth and squirming fish, but he can fry him to a queen's most polished taste and wish. He's full of vital knowledge, field and brook, for Forgy on outdoors is an authoritative book.

THE SKY

More restful than the darkness is the sky—
The feathered sky, soft as a swallow's wing.

The sky is liquid, like a cup of wine;
The sky is mighty, like cathedral bells.

Deep as the air, more changeless than the sea,
As pure as amber, ceaseless as the rain.

The sky is coral, like a custard rose.
The sky is everlasting, like the hills.

The sky is still as snow, as soft as death,
Green as the twilight, exquisite as stars.

The sky is as sweet as age, as sad as love.
More restful than the darkness is the sky.

The country had sidled into the home of a town relative, and was warmly invited to dinner.

"I upset a load o'hay on th' way t' town, and I've gotta go back. I don't think Pap would like t' have me stay for dinner."

Urged further, he sat down, eating heartily, but declaring he didn't believe Pap would like it. Coaxed to stay for the afternoon performance of the circus, he demurred, saying he feared paternal displeasure. But he went. Then he ate supper, making the same protest that he was afraid Pap wouldn't like it. But when, after he had attended the evening performance and was coaxed to stay all night, he said he was absolutely sure Pap would disapprove.

"What makes you keep saying you are afraid Pap wouldn't like it?" said a curious relative at last. "Cause he's 'nunder that load o'hay I upset this mornin'."

HOLES

A hole is nothing almost serried by something. The more there is of it the deeper it gets, and there is no limit to its shape.

Holes change according to circumstances, such for instance as a hole in the street gets full of water it changes to a puddle, which is one of the most unpopular kinds of holes to step into. Anybody that steps into the same puddle twice is naturally dumb.

The hole in a cruller tells it apart from a doughnut but is otherwise useless unless you have an ambition to bite around it to see how near you can come and still miss it.

The funniest holes is supposed to be the holes in Swiss cheese, being even funnier to talk about than what they are to look at. No matter how ignorant you are, if you mention the holes in Swiss cheese you can always make somebody laugh.

If you see a fello wawking backwards it may be because he's got a sudden hole in his pants and is trying to diskize it, but on the other hand it may merely be because he's tired of wawking frontwards. This proves appearances are deceitful.

One of the most inconvenient holes is a hole in your pocket that you know about but can't remember. One of the most convenient holes is a hole in the fents erround a ball game.

Holes disappear as soon as you take away wats erround them. A hole by itself is impossible and therefore a hole can never have a handle.

Questions and Answers

Q. How did the term "midshipman" as applied to men at the Naval Academy originate?

A. About 25 per cent of the enlisted men have applied for discharge, this amounting to approximately 55,000.

Q. What is a manitou?

A. This is an Algonquin word used to designate a particular religious concept of the Algonquin-speaking Indian tribes around the Great Lakes. They believe in a cosmic mysterious property which pervades everything. They personify this element in various manlike gods, spoken of as manitous.

Q. Who was known as the Man Milliner?

Q. How many kings have there been in the world?

A. There are no actual statistics on this, but Armstrong's Synopsis of Facts and Figures, 1891, says that there have been known to be 2,250 kings and emperors ruling over 75 different peoples. Of these 300 were deposed, 64 were forced to abdicate, 28 committed suicide, 23 became insane, 100 were killed in battle, 123 were captured by the enemy, two were tortured to death, 151 were assassinated and 108 were executed.

Q. Why did the Egyptians mummify their dead?

A. The Egyptians believed that after the soul departed from the body it was judged in the Hall of Double Truth, before Osiris, the judge of the dead. If by any chance the heart was destroyed, it would not be possible for the dead to enjoy life in the world to come.

BILLY BEAR'S TINIEST LITTLE FRIEND
Chapter 115

By Harvey Elliott

I want to introduce you tonight to one of the tiniest, weeniest, little friends that Billy Bear has. Her name is Jenny Wren. She is so little that she could hide in one of Billy Bear's ears so that you could never see her. Billy got acquainted with her that day that he was sitting in the wagon in Farmer Smith's barn-lot. Three or four times she set on the edge of the wagon and sang him a little song. She didn't seem in the least bit afraid of Billy and Billy liked her because she was so small and because she sang such a pretty song.

Now Tommy Smith likes Jenny Wren, too, so he made her a little house in which she could build her nest. He fastened it on the side of the woodhouse. Jenny soon flew in, looked it over and decided it would do for a home. So she and her husband at once started to build their nest.

Jenny brought a little stick and Mr. Wren brought another little stick. Now Bluffer the English Sparrow row at once became jealous of Jenny Wren. She was new and while Jenny and her husband were off hunting more sticks, Bluffer flew in and carried out the one they had brought in a little while before.

Tommy made a house for Jenny Wren

That performance continued most of the forenoon. The Wrens carried sticks in and went for more, but before they would get back, Bluffer the English Sparrow and his wife would carry them out. Jenny Wren finally became suspicious that those sticks were not climbing out of that house by themselves. She and Mr. Wren on the old woodshed and talked the matter all over.

As Jenny and her mate were jabbering and fluttering their wings, they attracted the attention of Mrs. Smith. She watched them a little while and decided that something was wrong. She had soon them carrying sticks and she had also heard the Sparrows scolding around the woodshed.

"Tommy," called Mother Smith, "I am afraid you have made the doorway of that Wren house too big. I think the Sparrows are going in and trying to keep the Wrens away."

Tommy watched a little and he saw Bluffer the English Sparrow squeeze through the doorway into Jenny Wren's house.

"Oh, ho, you old Bluffer, I'll put a stop to that," said Tommy Smith. So he cut a smaller hole in a thin piece of board and intended to nail it over the larger doorway. He waited to paint it, so he had to wait till the next day for the paint to dry before nailing it on.

Now I want to tell you in the next story how the Wrens outwitted the Sparrows and how Tommy Smith didn't have to nail on his new doorway to Jenny Wren's house, after all.
